Dear EYFS,

What a lovely sunny week we have had! Last weekend, we bought some new plants for our garden and ordered some new garden furniture. I hope it arrives soon so we can sit out in the garden and enjoy the sunshine! This week, I had a FaceTime with my new nephew, Arthur, who has grown so much! I am really looking forward to meeting him when it is safe to see our families again.

Next week would have been your half term holidays so I won't be setting you any new Maths or Phonics learning. There are still lots of activities and ideas for games on our EYFS home learning page if you wanted to revisit any of your learning. Next week is a time for you to enjoy spending time with your families, getting outdoors and having lots of fun. If you need some more inspiration, here are a few things you could do!

Why don't you check out the Wildlife Trust website <https://www.wildlifetrusts.org/>. Every June, the Wildlife Trust launches 30 Days Wild where they suggest 30 Random Acts of Wildness. Miss Wilman, Mrs Harden and Mrs Sparrow are all going to have a go at some of these challenges in June so why don't you have a sneaky peak and have a go at some of them! Here are the 30 Random Acts of Wildness Cards https://www.wildlifetrusts.org/sites/default/files/2020-04/RAW\_CARD\_SCHOOLS\_ALL\_HR\_UPDATED%5B1%5D.pdf.

You could also check out the YouTube channel, Wildlife Watch <https://www.youtube.com/user/WildlifeWatchUK>. Every Wednesday, they release a new video to help you learn about nature and give you ideas of activities you can do outdoors.

Get practising your handwashing technique! Remember the best handwashers make lots of bubbles! Check out this song from the NHS to teach you how to wash all the different parts of your hands and keep those pesky germs away <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=S9VjeIWLnEg>.

Remember I am still here if you want to email me photos of things you have been doing or if your grown-ups have any questions. Enjoy your week, stay safe and have lots of fun!

Keep smiling and speak to you soon!

Miss Wilman 😊
