Topic	Comparing Australia and the Arctic	Polar bears are related to the brown bears of North America. Thousands of years ago, a population of brown bears would have migrated north across the continent to the Arctic. Over time they would have evolved to become polar bears in order to survive the polar environment.   Similarly, penguins are only found in the Antarctic as they have evolved from a species of bird that settled in the Antarctic thousands of years ago. Find out about either polar bears or penguins. How have they adapted to their environments. Make a poster about your chosen animal.
