Dear Parents/Carers

So it looks like we'll be welcoming quite a few more of you back next week which is fantastic. It will be lovely to see you all again and we've just got to sort things out to make sure everything is safe and in place for you when you come back. If you are returning then we'd like you to make sure you are up to date on the literacy (Gadgets) and topic work (Theme Park) as this will be continuing in class for the next few weeks.

Hopefully last week went well and you were all able to access the different tasks and resources. Like last week, most of the tasks should be able to be completed off of the screen but I know there are some of you who might need a pack if you cannot print bits off. If this is the case then please pick up a pack from school between 3:30 and 4:00 on any day. Please ensure you stick to these times.

Literacy

Monday- We're going to finish the story today. Once you have read to the end, watch this video which re-tells the whole story in a fun and modern way.

Split your page in three (see website for example) and give section to Romeo and Juliet, Feuding Families and Friar Laurence. Who do you think is most to blame for the deaths at the end of Romeo and Juliet? Write an argument for each one being responsible and then give your own opinion.

Tuesday- Re-read the part of the story from where Romeo finds Juliet dead. Imagine you were a police investigator called to the scene. Write a report of what you saw as you entered the Capulet crypt. Think about where objects/people were and what you think might have happened. I've uploaded a mind map of things you might have found as you went to investigate and the beginning of a report.

Wednesday-Friday

We're going to begin working on another Talk4Writing unit which is where the Magical Door work came from. The unit is all about Gadgets and has been uploaded to the website and I would like you to work through the first 3 activities (Introduction, Activity 1, Activity 2). Please check the activity sheet as we have tweaked some of them from the actual unit to make them a bit more interesting.

The next few chapters for Room 13 have also been uploaded for you to work your way through. If there are more than 3 questions in each section, then just pick a couple to do. I know some of you did all of them last week, which you can keep doing if you wish.

Maths

Monday- I've uploaded an arithmetic test as I know some of you were struggling a little with the format of the MyMaths ones.

Tuesday/Wednesday- One of the areas we haven't covered this year is timetables. On the website you'll see some resources for each day. There are three levels so think carefully about which ones you want to attempt. You can always change your mind if you find them too easy or hard. Just make sure you read both the timetables and questions carefully. There is an extension as well for you to have a go at as well as my timetable challenge.

Thursday- This will be another escape room activity as quite a few of you seemed to enjoy this last week and I know we did in class.

Friday- BBC Bitesize challenge

Topic

This week I would like you to have a go at activities 3/4/5/6. All of these tasks have been uploaded along with the supporting resources. I shared quite a lot of your work in class so please keep sending me any examples of the activities.
